

The CB x Peter Pan cookbook series final chapter: Lee Tiernan: Black Axe Mangal

For the final entry in the CB x Peter Pan cookbook series, we have one of our favourite culinary iconoclasts visiting from London: Chef Lee Tiernan will be cooking from his legendary restaurant and eponymous cookbook Black Axe Mangal. Chef Tiernan made his name at Chef Fergus Henderson's St John's Bread and Wine, spending ten years there and leaving as Head Chef. His time at St. John's made Tiernan an expert in "Nose to Tail" cooking, and when he left he took these skills and added a heavy metal vibe, a DIY ethos and a talent for food that tastes like nothing you'd ever had. BAM, now F.K.A.B.A.M (formerly known as Black Axe Mangal) is famous for its wild aesthetic but also for the brilliance of Tiernan's live-fire cooking and for some of the unforgettably iconic dishes that he created there; including his squid ink flatbread and the many meat-centric donuts he's created over the years (the best of which will be featured at this dinner). His restaurant and cookbook have been inspirational to chefs around the world that long to cook high-end food without the fuss and pretense of fine dining. We are thrilled to have Chef Tiernan finish off our cookbook series.
